Card of Thanks to Dr Chong.

AFTER BEING TREATED FIVE MONTHS by a white doctor, and spending nearly $300, I was worse than when I first went to him. I had quite despaired of being relieved when I read Dr Chong's Card in THE COLONIST. I placed myself under his care and in NINE DAYS I was a well man. I write this card to discharge a debt of gratitude I owe to Dr Chong, which charge, I may also say, was reasonable. My complaint was neuralgia. WILLIAM McCORMICK.

C. FRANCIS BARNARD, MD.
SURGEON DENTIST.

DR. BARNARD HAS HAD FOR several months the "Perkins Hyatt" or "Celluloid Base," the newest and latest material adapted to the mounting of whole sets of teeth; he is also using "Whalebone-Rubber," which is rapidly supplanting, for single dentures or partial sets, the best vulcanites of the last 25 years. We cheerfully add Dr. B's Card to our columns, convinced that his good taste and judgment, united to natural skill and ingenuity, aided by an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, render his services more valuable and reliable than those of any other Dentist on the Sound, Coast or Island.

Dr. B's large experience may be readily seen in the happy and natural expression given his patrons by his life-like insertion of artificial Teeth.

The public may rest assured of patience, gentleness and undivided attention while under the Dr's hands, and that he will ever strive to be foremost in adopting helps and hints touching his own interest and that of his patrons.

Tuesday Morning, May 7, 1872

Proceedings in Parliament.

The editor makes way for the report of proceedings in the Dominion Parliament, on the 12th ultimo. It was announced in these columns a week ago, that, to Mr. Nathan, member for this city, had been reserved the honor of moving the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne; and it will be seen how well he discharged the task. British Columbia will evidently have no cause to blush for her youngest representative at Ottawa. Mr. Nathan's speech appears to have been well received, and it was highly complimented by the press of the capital. The speech delivered by Mr. Mackenzie could not but have disappointed the party he represents. That gentleman conceives himself to have been misrepresented in the Pacific Province, but the lame explanation of the opposition offered to the Terms upon which British Columbia was received won't help him one whit. The speech of the Grit leader would scarcely conduct one to the conclusion that the party feels particularly confident. The Government would seem to have been singularly reticent upon the subject of the Treaty of Washington, although Sir Francis Hincks did shed a ray of light and defined the position, to some extent at least, of the Premier in regard to that Treaty.

DELAYED DISPATCHES.

California.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1st.—The report this morning that F. L. A. Pioche had fallen dead with apoplexy while conversing with Major Livermore was circulated by his friends to conceal the real facts of a painful nature. The facts are that he had suffered an attack of apoplexy and had of late complained of a severe pain in his head, which the heat of the last few days aggravated to such an extent as to render him really insane. Last evening he complained greatly of it and said that his life was becoming unbearable. This morning his servant brought him the morning papers and left him in bed reading them. About a quarter past eight a dull noise was heard, but no particular attention was paid to it. Soon after it was found that he had blown his head into fragments with a revolver. His mining and other interests were prosperous, and he had no cause other than that assigned for the act. He was sixty years old, and unmarried.

Miss Grace Roberts, daughter of Captain Roberts, was married at the Unitarian Church to-day to Henry K Moore, a well known attorney. The church was one mass of flowers, and a very brilliant, fashionable audience was in attendance.

Judge Stanley announces that the office of Justice of Peace being a salaried one, Justices have no right to take fees, and lay themselves liable to a criminal prosecution when they do so. Justices have reaped a splendid harvest at the business of making out bonds for parties arrested by the police, charging $2 50 for each bond. But this will have to be stopped now.

This has been a broiling hot day and the picnicers who leave the city by thousands for Alameda and elsewhere are glad enough to get back as quickly as possible, half naked and thoroughly worn out.

No abatement in the heat this evening. It is the first time in the year that there has not been wind enough to blow smoke away from the bay in front of the city, and the eastern shore is invisible from this side.

JACKSON, May 1—The stage running between here and Volcano was robbed this morning about three o'clock, near Volcano, of Wells, Fargo & Co's treasure box, containing $10,000, by two masked highwaymen. The driver was ordered down and the stage was taken charge of by one of them while the other opened the box. Preparations are being made to pursue the robbers immediately.

Daniel J Canon, a mason, native of the United States, committed suicide by taking morphine in his room in the Coso House last night. He left letter to various parties, and an open one as follows: "To the Public:—Good-bye, friends; enemies can go to Goat Island. I die with the firm conviction that this is the last of me. I don't want Church members to try to make capital out of this. Religion is good in its way, but they can't poke it down me that the religion of the present day, or any other day, is Christianity."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3—The wealth of San Francisco is increasing through the incorporation of new mining companies at the rate of thirteen millions daily.

The thermometer has ranged from 74°, to-day, to 90°. A fine breeze has come to our relief this evening.

A French lady billiardist is said to be about to give exhibitions at Platt's Hall.

Eastern States.

LOUISVILLE, May 1—A daring robbery and murder were perpetrated at Columbia on Monday afternoon. Five mounted men rode up to a deposit bank and dismounted. Two held the horses and the others entered the bank, in which were four unarmed gentlemen including Martin, the Cashier, and demanded the keys, but the cashier refused in the face of the fearful threats of one of the scoundrels who shot him dead. The other three gentlemen escaped, but the robbers seized the money outside the safe and dashed away. There is intense excitement and persons are pursuing the robbers, who will be lynched if captured.

WASHINGTON, May 1—The President approved the bill repealing duties on tea and coffee. The Bill will not go into effect until after July 1st.

NEW YORK, May 4—The "Journal of Commerce" thinks the Democrats cannot support the Cincinnati nominations, and intimates the belief that they were made for the purpose of forcing the Philadelphia Convention to endorse them, or to throw the election into the hands of the Democratic party.

The New York Herald's Washington special says, at a Cabinet meeting the reply from the English Government in reference to the negative principles of international law, which Secretary Fish had approved of as a condition of our release of indirect damages, is so exceedingly unsatisfactory to this Government that probably there will be no back down after all, and the position assumed by the President at first will be maintained.

Europe.

LONDON, April 23 — In Parliament to-day, Granville and Gladstone stated that it was incompatible with the public interest to declare the intentions of the Government in regard to further proceedings before the Geneva Board.

In the House of Commons to-night, Newdegate asked leave to introduce a Bill for the appointment of a Commission to enquire into the character and rapid increase of monastic institutions in Great Britain. He explained the provisions of the Bill, and in the course of his speech declared that the priests impoverished the parishioners, and asserted that women had been forced into convents against their will.

Mayberry, member for Dungavin, protested against the offensive language of Newdegate, and represented him as endeavoring to excite religious strife.

Green, member for Bury St Edmonds, supported the Bill.

Carrigan, O'Reilly and Sherlock, Irish members, opposed it.

Leave was given for the introduction of Newdegate's Bill.

A long discussion followed a motion to expunge the twenty-fifth clause of the Educational Bill, which was not carried.

LONDON, April 20 — Miss Nellie Grant, daughter of the President, left Leamington this morning for London. The railway station was decorated with British and American flags. Bouquets were presented to the lady who departed amid cheers from a large crowd. Miss Grant, after remaining in London some days, will proceed to the Continent.

LONDON, April 29—The Postmaster General of New Zealand telegraphs to the Marquis of Huntington, Postmaster General of Great Britain, that he has concluded a satisfactory partnership between the Colonies of Victoria and New Zealand for the transportation of English mails to Australia via San Francisco.

Canada.

HALIFAX, April 20—The steamer Peruvian, from Liverpool for Baltimore, run on Thorum Cap Shoals, outside this harbor, early this morning. The passengers, seven hundred in number, were taken off and the steamer was finally pulled off by tugs, leaking badly, but she is thought not to be seriously injured.

HALIFAX, April 22—The steamer Peruvian has been hauled into the docks and is discharging. The pilot who is responsible for a nearly disastrous occurrence on Saturday, has fled and has not been seen since.

West Indies.

BOMBAY, May 3 — A terrific cyclone in Madras and vicinity on Wednesday caused serious loss of life. A number of vessels anchored in roads were wrecked and most of their crews lost.

Puget Sound.

The political enthusiasm of the people of Washington Territory has been suddenly cooled down by an Act of Congress, postponing the Territorial Election till November....The Puget Sound Steam Navigation Company held their first annual meeting at Olympia on Thursday. A Board of Directors and the usual officers were elected for the ensuing year. The Directors are J. B. Montgomery, Marshall Blinn, John N. Goodwin, O. F. Gerrish and Edwin A. Starr. John N. Goodwin was chosen President of the Company; Marshall Blinn, Vice President; and E. A. Starr, Secretary and Treasurer. The Company have not yet taken possession of the North Pacific, Alida, and other property now belonging to individual members. About the middle of June or the 1st of July the new Company will be fully organized and ready for work on the Sound. Then the boats named will be turned in as so much stock, and their whole direction and future management assumed by the Directors.....On the 20th of this month the Vice President and Directors of the Northern Pacific Railway are to start from the East on their way to Puget Sound. Their visit is presumed to be in connection with the selection of the terminus....The Olympia Tribune advises a California farmer who raises big vegetables to come up in September or October and promises to show potatoes weighing three or four pounds, turnips and beets that go from twenty to forty, and piles of cabbage heads that average thirty pounds. We (Victoria COLONIST) don't doubt it in the least, especially the "cabbage heads." ....The steamer Libby was launched on Saturday, having undergone complete repairs and looking better than ever. Her speed has been increased to ten or twelve knots an hour....The ladies of the Congregational Church, Seattle, are to give an "Apron Festival" on Thursday evening next. What will it be like?

NEW GOVERNOR OF MANITOBA.—The following appeared in the Canada Gazette of 13th April:

His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to make the following appointments, viz:—

The Hon. Francis Godschall Johnson, of the Province of Manitoba, Recorder of that portion of Rupert's Land, now constituting the Province of Manitoba, to be Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Manitoba, vice the Honorable Adams George Archibald, resigned.

The Hon. Francis Godschall Johnson, of the Province of Manitoba, Recorder of that portion of Rupert's Land now constituting the Province of Manitoba, to be Lieutenant Governor of the North West Territories, vice the Hon. Adams George Archibald, resigned.

IN THE SENATE.—The reply to the speech from the Throne appears to have occasioned very little discussion in the Canadian Senate. In the course of a few remarks Senator St. Just said he desired to express the pleasure which the House and country felt at the presence of members from Manitoba and British Columbia. Senator Dickey thanked the Government on behalf of Nova Scotia for that part of the address relating to the construction of the Baie Verte Canal, which he believed would be not only a benefit to the Lower Provinces, but to the whole Dominion.

THE WALDRON CO.—The North Pacific brought over the Waldron Theatrical Company, who exchanged at Port Townsend from the Portland steamer. The company is a very strong one, comprising such talented performers as Mr. and Mrs. Waldron, Mr. Wm. Barry, the Misses Pixley, and others who are well and favorably known to the Victoria public. Mr. Waldron played a very long star engagement at this Theatre in 1863, and was an undeniable favorite. The company will open to-morrow evening with "Narcisse."

DEATH AT NEW WESTMINSTER.—Mr. W. Fisher yesterday received a telegram stating that the wife of J. C. Haynes Esq., Gold Commissioner of Kootenay District, died at New Westminster at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. Haynes was lately married and leaves one child. Mr Haynes was expected to arrive at New Westminster last evening from Kootenay.

ON THE FREE LIST.—By an order in Council the Dominion Government have transferred to the list of goods which may be imported into Canada free of duty, the following: — "Three, four and six ply white and colored unfinished cotton thread in hanks, not under number twenty yarn."

MANITOBA.—The news of the appointment of Judge Johnson of Manitoba to the position of Lieutenant Governor of that Province is something that we were not prepared for. One would naturally have expected that some one of more note and political experience would have been selected to fill a position of so much importance and difficulty.

THE RAILWAY.—The interest of the late Mr. Waddington in the Canada-Pacific did not die with him. It was confided to Mr. Wm. Kersteman, an English gentleman of means who represents capitalists, and who had formed a junction with Sir Hugh Allan's scheme.

THE San Francisco cricketers, thirteen in number, will leave for Victoria on the 20th of May, per steamer Prince Alfred. Rooms for the California Eleven have been secured at the Driard House.

FROM THE SOUND.—The steamer North Pacific, arrived from the Sound at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, with 40 passengers and 21 cattle. She had on board the body of Mrs. Schaefer, the mother-in-law of Governor Saloman, which was brought over to be interred in the Jewish Cemetery. In consequence of this the steamer's flags were hoisted half-mast high.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—This body will hold its first sitting to-day, at 2 p.m., in Dominion Hall, which has been leased for its purposes.

DEATH.—Isaac Cummings, an elderly colored man, formerly employed at Dunlop's, died at the Royal Hospital yesterday afternoon of heart disease.

T. N. HIBBEN & Co., received by the North Pacific, New York and California papers of late dates and containing valuable information.

Charles, a Hydah Indian, for assaulting Annie, a Hydah, by biting her thumb, was fined $20; in default of payment 2 months imprisonment.

NOMINATION.—Horace Greely for President, and R. G. Brown for Vice President, are the nominees of the Cincinnati Republican Convention.

FROM SAN JUAN.—The steamer Emma with the schooner Black Diamond in tow arrived from San Juan on Sunday about 2 p. m.

FROM NANAIMO.—The steamer Grappler towed down the ship Commodore from Nanaimo and casting off in the straits came into the harbor at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday.

THE bark Deleware will be towed down from Moody's Mills by the Grappler on Wednesday.

POLICE COURT.—Two Hydah Indians for being drunk and disorderly were fined 5s.—in default six hours imprisonment.

THE JAPS played to another good house last evening and to-day will take their departure for Puget Sound and Oregon.

The New Westminster Eleven propose to invite the San Francisco Eleven to visit that city and play a match at cricket.

THE CABLE was out of sorts again yesterday and very few dispatches were received.

THE steamship Prince Alfred sailed from San Francisco for Victoria yesterday.

A MEETING of the Board of Delegates of the Fire Department this evening.

THE Enterprise sails at ten this morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5 —The funeral of the late L. A. Roche was attended by almost the entire French population and many other citizens. The French military and Masonic fraternity escorted the remains to the cemetary. Pending the decision of relatives in France as to sending the remains to that country for interment they were placed in the vault in the Masonic Cemetery.

A number of capitalists, miners and business men leave for Schell Creek this week. Dispatches received on Friday speak of extensive discoveries of silver ore, carrying considerable gold, in that district within the past few days.

Arrived—Stmr Alaska from Panaimo. She touched at Cape St Lucas and took on a number of famalies who were compromised in the late revolutionary outbreak at Mazatlan. She brings over 300 passengers, and a very heavy freight. The latest news I can get does not confirm the report of the capture of Mazatlan by the Federals.

A. GILMORE, MERCHANT TAILOR, and General Outfitter, has removed his place of business to the store adjoining the Colonial Hotel and opposite the Colonist Office, on Government street, fourth door from Yates, where he proposes to give his old friends and new customers a chance on the principle of quick sales and small profits. *

False Theories Overthrown.

We live under a new medical dispensation, very different from that under which so many of our forefathers died. The sick are no longer bled till they faint, nor gorged with mercury, nor prostrated with violent cathartics, nor blistered on their shaven heads. Ever since the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, renovation and restoration, not depletion and prostration, are the watchwords of the judicious portion of the profession. The remarkable success of this famous vegetable preventive, invigorant and corrective has worked a complete revolution in the general treatment of disease. At first the dogmatic members of the faculty would not believe it. "What!" they exclaimed, 'cure liver complaint without mercury, chronic rheumatism without colchicum, fever and ague without quinine! Impossible!" But the most obstinate incredulity must yeild in the end to practical demonstration. From that time to the present dyspepsia, biliousness, intermitten fevers, muscular diseases, nervous complints and constipation have vanished under the operation of the great specific, in at least ninty per cent. of the cases in which it has been used as a remedy for those ailments, while as a preventive of all maladies generated by change of climate, sudden revulsions of temperature, epodimic poison in the atmosphere, and unwholesome water, its beneficial effects have been so obvious and uniform as to secure the most perfect confidence in its properties as an antidote, safeguard and cure.

The House of Commons

THE REPLY TO THE SPEECH!

FRIDAY, April 12th, 1872.

THE ADDRESS.

The Addrpss to the Governor General was taken into consideration.

Mr Henry Nathan (City of Victoria, B. C.) moved the reply as follows:—I have the honor to more an Address in reply to the Speech of His Excellency the Governor-General, which, I feel convinced, will comment itself to every member of this House. In being entrusted with the duty of moving this address, I fully appreciate the compliment which has been paid to the Province to which I belong. In performing that duty, I crave the indulgence which this House is accustomed to accord to those who address it for the first time. The recovery of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales must necessarily be a matter of congratulation to every loyal Canadian, and the demonstrations of joy and thanksgiving which have been evinced by British subjects throughout the world, cannot fail of being a source of pleasure to the Royal family. It will be our duty, on Monday to assist in giving expression to the sense of gratitude of the Canadian people to the Almighty for the great mercy he had vouchsafed, and I am fully convinced that in no part of Her Majesty's Empire will there be a stronger or more sincere demonstration of joy than in the Dominion. We fully appreciate the necessity of the postponed meeting of Parliament, in view of the existence of grave considerations justifying their course, Since the last meeting of the House the peace of the country has again been disturbed by a threatened invasion of lawless individuals from a neighboring Republic. Thanks, however to the promptitude of the Government, and the friendly action of the United States authorities, the evil was averted. The facility offered by the vast extent and scattered population of this country to evilly disposed persons to enter upon such undertakings would appear to call for measures of protection at vulnerable points; and more particularly would this appear to be the case at Fort Garry where a body of Militia might with advantage be retained to watch the safety of the community. On the occasion I have referred to as well as on all previous occasions of a similar nature, the Canadian soldiers have held their character for courage and endurance. Although circumstances prevented their meeting with the disturbers of the tranquility of their country face to face, their discipline and energy were fully proved by their successfully overcoming the obstacles of the march to Manitoba through such a difficult country at a most inclement season of the year. I am sure I only re-echo the feeling of all Canadians when I say that no reasonable expenditure on the part of the Government will be grudged in defending the country from these outrages, and the expenses we have incurred in connection with the disturbances in question will be cheerfully voted. I trust that the marked and ignominious failures of all the efforts of all these marauders for years, will deter them from making any further attempts in the same direction. We are glad to be informed that the Treaty of Washington which touches upon affairs of so much interest to this Dominion will be laid before the House and that other communications bearing upon this important subject will be presented for our consideration, and we doubt not that the action taken would be that best calculated to conserve the true interests of the country. It must be universally gratifying to learn from His Excellency's speech that so many subjects likely to promote our best interests have received that attention which their importance demands, not the least of which is the question of immigration. It is most satisfactory to know that a scheme for the encouragement of that movement will be laid before the House, which will doubtless have the effect of attracting a larger share of European emigration to these shores than has hitherto reached us, and which will help to populate this large domain extending from ocean to ocean and capable of supporting so many million souls. Money devoted to such an object cannot be more advantageously appropriated, Population and population only is needed to make this Dominion one of the richest countries in the world. The admission of British Columbia must also be a subject of congratulation. By the confederation of that Province you have secured a territory of two hundred and twenty thousand square miles—a land rich in coal, rich in timber, rich in fish, whose valleys are natural pastures, whose mountains are covered with verdure—a country that, with its enormous resources must, ere long, take its stand among the foremost Provinces of the Dominion. Apart from the natural wealth of the Province, you have, by this connection, secured an outlet for commerce on the Pacific seaboard which must afford incalculable advantages; and, moreover, such a measure was necessary, as one of the steps in forming a compact union out of a number of disunited Provinces which with adverse interests, and with local prejudices, and the absence of any machinery for counteracting these prejudicial influences, would never have commanded attention and respect, or gained that degree of prosperity which to-day characterizes the Dominion. I need not say the House is fully prepared to make provision for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railroad in accordance with the terms of union with British Columbia, which, even if we are not bound to we would construct as a means of binding our various Provinces together, by affording them facilities for rapid communication, and by identifying their interests by commercial and other relations. It is, in fact, a work of vital importance to the welfare of the Dominion. Among the many advantages we may expect from the building of that road is the populating of the great North West, a country surpassing any on the continent as a wheat producing district, and for giving to that fertile land markets both on the Atlantic and Pacific shores of this continent. It will further offer us the means of competing for and securing the bulk of trade between Europe and Asia which must bring to the Dominion a great accession of wealth and so enable her to occupy the place to which she is entitled by her vast territory and favorable position. Therefore it is a source of gratification to learn that a preliminary survey of this road has been vigorously prosecuted, and that a report on the survey will be prepared and laid before us in due time. Another most important question for the future of this Dominion is that of canals and their extension, and, since a most laborated report has been furnished on the subject, no doubt ample provisions will be made for our requirements. The necessity of providing water communication between the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy, is also one which the House will probably not lose sight of, since it will shorten considerably the distance between the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic seaboard. The measure for re-adjusting the representation of Parliament in accordance with last census, and in the spirit of the British North America Act will, doubtless, receive the attention it demands at our hands. I think this House is fully alive to the necessity of legislating as to the management of its public lands. The mines of Manitoba and the Northwest since the occupation of that vast and fertile region, cannot fail to add enormous wealth to the Dominion. The House has, no doubt, been pleased to learn that the revenue for the past and current year will be greatly on excess of what has been estimated. This fact is all the more gratifying as although in the eve of undertaking large public improvements, we need be under no apprehension of embarrassment from a diminution of income. Such an increase of our revenue is the best index of the prosperity of the Dominion, which during the past year has been most marked. In every city, in every town, in every port we find trade healthy, our commerce increasing, new industries commenced, and the people happy, contented, and prosperous (Hear, hear), for which cheering state of affairs we are not a little indebted to the able fiscal policy of the Government. (Applause). Since the beginning of the Confederation in 1867 we have seen each Province become more prosperous as soon as it became confederated, the identity of interests helping the weak without impoverishing the strong. (Applause). In adverting to the paragraph in His Excellency's speech having reference to the happy results of what has been done within the past few years, with a view to the consolidation of the various Provinces constituting this Dominion, I may perhaps, be allowed to point out how much occasion we have for gratitude that this great work should have been accomplished in so peaceable and constitutional a manner. He concluded by thanking the House for their attention to the speech.

Mr Carter seconded the reply in a brief speech, in which he referred to the Treaty of Washington as a timely settlement of the difficulties existing between Great Britain and the United States.

Mr. McKenzie congratulated the two young members who had so ably moved and seconded the Address. With respect to the admission of British Columbia into the union, he said it was a matter of sincere congratulation to himself and those who usually acted with him in the House that the union had taken place, because he believed it to be a geographical necessity to the Dominion. (Hear, hear.) He made this statement because the Opposition had been misrepresented in the recent elections in British Columbia The statement had been made that they opposed the extension of the Dominion to the Pacific. He denied that they had ever opposed it; their objection was to the terms of union. He could not congratulate the House on the delay in calling Parliament to meet. No reason had been assigned for it, and until some satisfactory cause should be shown, he was forced to condemn the unreasonable time they had been called to meet. He believed the speech from the throne was more conspicuous for the absence of important measures, than for what it foreshadowed. In fact, the House and the country were left to obtain their information from speeches published in the papers and from printed pamphlets. He read an extract from the speech of Hon. J. Howe, delivered at Ottawa a short time since, respecting the connection of this colony with Great Britain, He condemned the speech as wholly unjustifiable. If it was the intention of the Government to favor the severence of this Dominion from the British Empire, he believed they should have the honesty and boldness to submit their policy to Parliament for their discussion. He could not concur in the opinion expressed by the member for Brone (Carter), that the Treaty of Washington was a happy settlement of disputes between Great Britain and the United States. He contended that the Treaty showed bad statesmanship, to say the least. He referred to the omission from the Address of New Brunswick's demand for better terms. He charged the Government with the responsibility of having given rise to that demand by establishing a precedent for it in the case of Nova Scotia. He adverted to the absence of any reference in the Speech to a Controverted Elections Act, and a bill to create a Supreme Court; in fact there was scarcely any mention made of anything. It was a meagre bill of fare, and anyone might have anticipated that, from the prophecies in all the ministerial papers that the Session would be short. He referred to the absence of any mention in the Speech to the conduct of Lt.-Gov. Archibald in Manitoba, and condemned that conduct in severe terms. He would cordially agree with the Government of improving the navigation of the country, if their plan should be such as to commend itself to the practical experience of the people.

Sir Francis Hincks said it was not his intention to follow the hon gentleman through all the topics in the address to the House. There would be other opportunities of touching most of them. He entertained a wholly different opinion from the hon. member from Lambton (Mr. McKenzie) respecing the construction of the Pacific Railway. He (Sir Francis) was sure the House would find that the work could be undertaken and completed without any risk of injuring the credit of the country, (hear, hear). He was surprised that there should be any doubt as to the cause of the delay in calling Parliament together when it was so well known that misunderstandings had arisen between Great Britain and the United States. With reference to the speech of his hon. colleague, the Secretary of State for the Provinces, he would make no reply. That hon. gentleman was present, and everyone knew he was well able to defend himself. Anyone who knew the hon. gentleman's views, was aware that they were not in the direction charged against him. With respect to speeches occasionally made on the subject of the Washington Treaty by members of the Government, he happened to be one of them, and he could only say, he should be very happy indeed to find anyone on the floor of the House who was prepared to controvert the views he had expressed on the subject. There were two subjects involved in the treaty question—the merits of the treaty itself, and the responsibility of the Canadian Government for that Treaty, and of the Premier especially. When that hon. gentleman was invited to take a seat on that Commission, what would it have been his duty to do, on the assumption that the arguments used by the hon. gentleman opposite, and by Opposition papers, were right? His first duty would have been to have answered the application made to him to him to take the seat, "I will not do so, unless on the distinct understanding that I am not to be bound to sign any treaty that does not suit me." If his hon. friend had not done that, and had gone on that Commission with the intention of deliberately taking a course different from the one usually followed in such cases, he would have acted in the most dishonorable manner towards the Imperial Government. He knew the conditions on which he had to go there; and, on the other hand, if he had named such conditions, was there a single member in the House that believed he would have received the appointment at all? There was a great honor and advantage in having this country represented on that Commission. There was an opportunity throughout to let the views of Canada be presented, and everyone knew they had been urged with energy and zeal by the First Minister. (Hear, hear.) And it was most satisfactory, that throughout the whole of the proceedings in that Commission there had been perfect unanimity among the thirteen members composing this Government, drawn from all parts of the Dominion. Looking at the fact that all the leading statesmen in Great Britain laid down the fact that the Commissioners were not responsible for the treaty, and the British Ministry, assuming that responsibility, it was most unfair to thrust the responsibility upon the first minister of this Government, and he came down free from the responsibility of that treaty, though he signed it. As a Canadian Minister he and his colleagues came down to advise the House to take that course which the interests of the country demanded, and he had no fear that when the papers should be brought down the House would see that the Canadian Ministry had done their duty, and taken a course which would commend itself to the House, and they would be justified in all they had done. What had been said by the hon Minister of Public Works in Quebec, was the opinion of every member of the Government at the time—that they did not approve of that treaty They were unanimous in the course they now pursued, but that course could not be discussed until the papers relating to the treaty were brought down.

Hon. Mr. Holton said he had no desire to protract the debate, but he could not allow it to close without protesting against the position taken by the Financial Minister. He (Mr. Holton) held that no power on earth could have controlled the Prime Minister of Canada, in respect to Canadian interests, with the charge of which he had been clothed, other than the Parliament of Canada to which he was responsible for all his acts as a minister. With respect to the delay in convening Parliament he was obliged to dissent from the position taken by his honorable friend. The difficulties of which he had spoken as preventing the earlier assembling of Parliament had not arisen until after the 16th of February, at which time the session should have been opened.

Hon. Mr. McDougall said that he had studied this treaty question and discussed it with his constituents, and intelligent men throughout the country. Speaking as a Canadian, as a loyal subject of the British Crown, and as a representative of a loyal constituency, he had no hesitation in saying that he was prepared loyally to ratify (if that word were a proper one) the Treaty of Washington. He felt some surprise and some regret if he rightly understood the Finance Minister to say that he won'd throw any obstruction in the way of the ratification of the treaty. He (Mr. McDougall,) would infer from the remarks of the hon. gentleman that the Government were opposed to the treaty. If so, he was at a loss to understand how they were to give effect to that opposition. There was reason to believe that the first minister and the government of Canada remonstrated against the treaty, but their remonstrances were apparently without effect. They did not prove sufficiently powerful to secure such terms in that treaty as were suitable to Canada; but the question being ratified by the Parliament of Great Britain and the Congress of the United States, the question was now settled. Canada was bound to accept the conclusion arrived at or should be prepared to change the relations existing between the Dominion and the mother country. He was not prepared to take that ground. As a private citizen of the country, he had a right to take whatever ground he pleased on public questions, but in this House, standing as a representative of a constituency and speaking in their name, he had no right to discuss questions in the sense in which he had taken the liberty of doing in his private capacity as a member of the community, at Hamilton the other day.

Sir Francis Hincks asked permission to correct a mistake into which his honorable friend had fallen respecting his (Sir Francis') remarks on the treaty question. What he had said was, that the ministry had opposed the treaty at the time it was consummated. The consequence was that a long correspondence had taken place the result of which would be seen when the papers were brought down. There was an entire accord at this time between this government and the government of Great Britain.

It being 6 o'clock the House rose,

AFTER RECESS.

Hon Mr McDougall resumed the debate and concluded with a few remarks defining his position.

The first seven sections of the Address were adopted without discussion.

On reaching the 8th paragraph relating to the extension of the Canal System of the Dominion,

Mr Street rose and said he hoped to see as soon as possible a bill brought down to the House that would point out the mode in which the work of improving the canal system was to be undertaken. The paragraph was adopted without further discussion.

On reaching the tenth paragraph relating to the regulation and management of public lands in Manitoba.

Mr Masson (Terrebone) rose to defend Riel, to whom Mr Mackenzie had alluded as the leader of a horde of banditti. He believed that Riel was wrong in the course he had pursued, but he did not approve of the undignified and sweeping denunciations of the hon member for Lambton.

The remaining paragraphs of the address were adopted without further discussion.

Sir John A Macdonald moved the usual formal resolution to appoint a committee to draft a reply to the Speech

Hon Mr Holton objected to the adoption of the resolution without hearing some explanations from the Government respecting the Washington Treaty.

Sir John A Macdonald declined to discuss the question until the whole matter was regularly brought before the House. Then he would be quite ready to discuss it with his honorable friend to the fullest extent and it was due to the House and to the country that it should be discussed.

The House adjourned at 5.30.

HOLLOWAY'S

Every Man his own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.
